From my time in Portia Wiki So I spent 4 days trying to find feces and I can't any of the guides seem to be helping B.C. places they want you to watch no nonePage 2 14 comments Brittany is a gaming junkie! Her favorite genres - simulation games, craft games, moguls, RPGs, urban builders, puzzles and more! The ultimate My Time in Portion's Guide and Step-By Guide! My time in Portia is an open world, RPG, modeling and crafting game where you put in a rookie shoe in the post-apocalyptic town of Portia. It is your job to take over as a city builder, make friends with townspeople, make money full of commissions, grow crops and more! I spent over 100 hours playing this game and can't get enough! During my gameplay, I took some tips and tricks to excel in the game. Looking for ways to make money, make friends, craft, farm, defeat enemies, win competitions and gain skills? Look no further than this final My Time in Portion guide! Use the content table below to move on to the category you're interested in. Table content!You'll need a lot of wood! All screenshots are taken from my own gameplay, unless otherwise stated. Common TipsSlow down speed games You can go into the game settings and slow down how fast the game day passes in real life. I play at 70% speed and find it takes about 40 minutes in real life to complete one game day (from the sun to 3am). You can play around a bit to see what time is most appropriate for you. Take poop!See all that poop on the farm and grass? Take it. You need feed for fertilizer and sometimes you can get free seeds from it that you can later transplant on the farm. Make a lot of storage boxes and keep them in your home. You find yourself collecting as many items and better hold on to everything as you will never know when you need it. Craft a few boxes to store and keep them in the house, so you don't waste precious open space. Keep one box on your crafting stations for quick access (although crafting will automatically pull out of your drawers) and one at the gate as well. Unfortunately, you can't place boxes anywhere outside the farm. Collect a lot of wood At the beginning of the game, you will find that you never have enough wood. You'll need it to run your ovens, which you should have a few (more on that below). Until you unlock the tree farm, you need to chop wood yourself, so spend some time chopping down trees to collect wood. Trade 999 stone for 999 wood in AGG once a day For the next You can visit Gusta's store on the construction of the AGG and trade 999 stone for 999 wood. You will find that it is super easy to collect stone when you are mining abandoned ruins; much easier than chopping wood. Rent a horse While it may be tempting to buy a stable and build it on your land, the cost of buying a stable horse and then the products needed and the space lost to hold hold stable is not really worth it at the beginning of the game. It is much more cost-effective and efficient to rent a horse from McDonald for 500 goals a week. Use a feather rag for petsif up and when you start to keep the animals, a feather rag object will allow you to pet all those in the area with one click. Sounds disgusting, but take the poop. It's useful! Upgrade the tools as soon as possible as soon as you have the necessary materials, upgrade the pickaxe, axe and sword. You can unlock the bronze pretty quickly, but the iron materials are the best (until the end of the game when you can unlock the highest class tools). Modernization allows you to open large stones, cut down large trees and extract faster. You can unlock more inventory on your character there are three pages worth of inventory slot on your character. Unlock a number of inventory slots (8 slots) by clicking on the lock and buying them. You can have a total of 120 individual items (stacked at 999 each, except for some items) if you unlock all the slots. Explore everywhere to find chests and special itemsWatch in every home you can, every area on the map, high and low. You will find hidden chests that contain special items - weapons, craft items, bars, etc. Use the calendar to set notes You can write yourself reminders and even set them to repeat with a single click on the calendar. Look for Mysterious Man every month on the 27th and 28thIt walks around the city and sells rare products- giant seeds, pet items, furniture and more. Its goods are pricey, so save your gols! Save relic pieces for use in the recovery MachinePretty self-evident, but you need pieces to make relics that can be used for museum decorations, jewelry, statistic increases or points of friendship (more on that below) Don't worry, use additional data drives to speed up ResearchUnless you have data drives to save, don't worry. This usually only speeds up research for a day or two, and can really spend drives of data that you need so much to unlock recipes and progress early in the game. My time in Portions Skill TreesSkills and Stats!Use furniture and clothing for updated statsMost furniture items (including relics found in the mines) have bonus stats like adding on more HP, SP, attack or defense. If you put them in your home, you can update your status. Check the frame on the wall in your home to see how high your stats can go. You can get increased statistics by building a bigger house and leveling up. You can get bonuses for having a friendship with the characters in the game will give you stat bonuses when you become a buddy level relationship with them and above. Afo gives a bonus for the attack. Remington gives extra points to the defense. Sam gives more Statistics. Phyllis gives extra endurance points. Use all your stamina every day and don't get up late There's no penalty for staying until 3am in the game, so play until you're in the pass. Use all your endurance collecting items or mining and then aside before going to bed. You'll wake up in your bed in the morning with full stamina and HP again. If you have run out of stamina, it is a good time to organize your farm or craftit is not worth the stamina to move furniture or run craft stations, so if you have run out completely and still have time in the day, use this time to renovate your house or farm and do some crafting. Eat at the round table to replace the endurance! you can pay for food at the round table and restore stamina (by a certain number of points). Relationships can unlock bonuses. Use apples to replenish enduranceApple are one of the best (and free!) sources of top-up stamina. During an early game, just kick the apple tree and eat the raw apples for 5 stamina (kicking the tree takes 1 stamina, so endurance output is 4 points). Once you work out the blender, you can turn the raw apples into apple juice for 10 points. And finally, once you have a dryer, you can make dried apples for a 10% increase in stamina. Plant a few apple trees and make some drying racks as soon as you can and you'll have a steady supply of stamina! Use herbs to replace HPYou can pick up herbs all over the city for free. Raw herbs restore 10 hp if you have a blender you can make herbal juice for 25 hp. You can use herbal juice and cotton to create a simple ointment that restores a whopping 125 HP. I keep a stack of simple ointments on my character at all times to restore HP while in combat. Level up to unlock SkillsUsing endurance, crafting, and completing commissions to give you experience points, which in turn will help you level up, and every time you level up, you unlock one point for your tree skill. You can unlock tree skills as you like, depending on how you like to play, but I focus mainly on gathering and social skills as most defense skills can be enhanced by food and weapons (more on combat and defense below). You can also reset your tree skills by acupuncture with Phyllis (10% bonus if you're buddies with her) at Dr. Xi's office. Note that you don't need to unlock the whole row on the tree to go down to the branch underneath it, You just need to spend 5 points per branch to fall to the next skill level and you can spread those points the way you want. You can go on dates with bachelors/bachelors in the game. Friendship and MarriageKeep Topaz are on hand to give as a cheap giftIf you want to make friends in the game (and you definitely do, see more below), then a good way to make friends quickly by giving a gift every day. Some characters have things they love and don't like, but in the beginning, it's very easy to hand Topaz as everyone likes it, and it gives you 4 friendships (for Ginger who gets only 1 point) and costs nothing for you to give out. You can get Topaz by extracting large rocks with an iron pickaxe. Talk to everyone once a day!They repeat the same lines, but it gives you friendship points! Leave the relics outside in your farm for friendship points!Anytime NPC passes by and sees the relic they like. You get friendship points (sometimes 30 30 with them. The same goes for the NPC seeing the relic you put in the museum. Give people the gifts they love, as soon as you make more gols and have the money and resources to do it, you can gift NPCs with items they love to increase the point of friendship. Check the wiki for specific characters (or try trial and error). Favorite gifts given for a character's birthdays or holidays cost double points. Every time you turn in a commission, you get friendship points from the NPC that posted it. The same goes for special quests (those that appear on the map as a blue exclamation point) - these are side quests that do not promote the overall storyline, but will give you points for the character with whom you interact. Most NPCPC give discounts for what their friends All shop owners give discounts in their respective stores once you reach the level of a buddy with them (Django at the round table, Albert at AG Building, Nora in the church shop, etc). Gail gives a discount on land upgrades, Antoine gives a bonus to Gols earned on commissions, Ag gives a discount on his monthly rent fee, Dawa and Dana give discounts on subscriptions to the mining service and tree farm, respectively. Once you make friends, you can expect lots of birthday presents! Go to playdates. To get friendship pointsOnce you reach Buddy status, you can go on playdates with NPCs. You can get friendship points by interacting with them, playing mini-games together, chatting, or eating at the Roundtable. If their points are displayed by stars, they cannot be dated. Increase your friendship with the above methods until you reach the status of a friend. Becoming friends, you can give them a knot of heart (purchased in Alice's flower shop). Make sure you have a high friendship before you do it, or they can reject you! Once they do, they'll be your boyfriend and your girlfriend. Continue to increase relationships, go on dates, interact with them, give gifts and chat. In the meantime, upgrade your home to level 2 or higher. Buy an engagement ring from a mysterious person and offer your partner as soon as you are in the status of lover or above. If they say yes, you'll get married the next day. You can purchase wedding clothes from the church shop if you want as well. Your spouse will move with you can help around the farm (collecting created items or usually animals), give you gifts, spend time with you in day (you can ask them to follow you) or even accidentally ask you to go and do special things together (like go to a photo shoot or go fishing together). CraftingLater in the game, you you Build a factory! Having several craft stations In the beginning of the game it is best to have at least 5 stone furnaces, 1 meat grinder, 2 cutters and 1 skier. Then you can create more stations as you see the necessary. The Worktable update as!PThis will give you access to more crafting items, which means bigger commissions and more money. Always your running!Keep Furnaces are their making items all the time-remain on the top of the wood for fuel and constantly keep a steady stream of items being made. Always hold a stack of at least 20-bronze bars (which can be turned into bronze pipes- also useful) steel plates of iron bars of carbon steel rods All these items are used in large quantities and for many recipes in the game. Agriculture is not a major part of the game, but you should not ignore it. FarmingBuy has at least six large planters from the Church store!They cost 2 data drives each. They can only be purchased in the Church Store.Buy and plant at least one of each tree!Apricot, Apple, Crystella, Nitra, and zeolor Trees can be planted and grow all year round. Buy them at the Church Store using data drives at the beginning of the game as you can. I recommend buying 2 apple trees if you can afford it. Use 1 Large planter for special giant seeds You can buy them from Mysterious Man. Special seeds take up to 28 days to ripen. There is always one growing, and once you harvest them, save the giant crop for sale or to enter the Autumn Festival.Craft at least 10 small planters and plants all year round there are some seeds you can plant at any time and some that are seasonal. Make sure you are always planting seasonal crops during the appropriate season (such as red pepper in summer, for example) and keep a steady supply of other growing crops too. Rainbow Flower is good to plant all year round as you can use it to make pigments that can be used to make different items. Cotton should also be planted all year round (except winter when it can't be planted) as you need a lot of cotton for different items. Use fertilizer to double the yield/chance of more seeds You can buy fertilizer from Sophie's farm shop or craft it yourself using a blender. You don't need to water the plants No watering is necessary, just plant, fertilize, and harvest! After all, you can unlock the assistant to do it all for you! Some spouses can do your harvest for you, but if you hire Ack, it can fertilize, harvest, and re-plant for you. That's great! Earning MoneyBeating Higgins is easy with a bit of strategy. Have commissions every day Make sure you head to the Commercial Guild at exactly 8am every day to grab your daily commission. Choose a commission you can One Day At the beginning, it will be tempting to take the commission that pays the most, but chances are you won't have all the goods or enough stations to work it out quickly. If you don't work it out before the time, you will lose the workshop points. So choose a commission that you know you can either craft quickly or already have the necessary item for. Try to give it to later in the day. Then rinse and repeat the next day. Beat Higgins Commission board!You can beat Higgins in the board if you get to the Commercial Guild at 8 (he's also there at 8, but he'll walk slower than you if you sprint). Then you can choose the highest paid commission and look at it until Higgins leaves, looking at the commission, he can not choose it, so he is forced to take a higher-paying commission. Once you've progressed in the game, you can snatch the highest paid commission before it does, and look at the second highest, forcing it to take a small commission instead. Sell the goods back to suppliers throughout the city!Most sellers in the city will buy your goods. They are limited in how much money they have each day to buy. AHG Construction usually has the most gols to redeem from you, so I'm going there first. You can also sell most things to the best brother and all the tools. Craft goods and sell them back to suppliers when the market is high. Buy low, sell high market values vary every day. The lowest I've seen the market get is 74%. This is a good time to stock up on plants, ingredients, fishing worms, or any other goods you want. The highest I've seen the market get is 134%. This is a good time to sell additional items that you have created or spare relics. I generally start selling as soon as the market goes above 100% and keep my most expensive items (look in your inventory to see how many products sell for) when the market reaches 120% or higher (but actually hold out until 134% of the days when you can). You can check the register in the commerce building to see the market price that day after you have received the daily commission. Turn the spare stone into stone chairs and sell them!Pressed clean stone costs just 0.5 gols. Selling stone stools costs 7 gots. You can work out a stone chair instantly on your desktop for 10 stone. You can make a better profit by selling your stone as a chair, not just a clean stone. Sell spare sand and soil You will find yourself collecting these 999s, just by doing a few runs in ruins. Sell a spare for some quick and easy money and just keep one stack of 999 in your inventory. You probably don't even need that many of them. Sell spare furniture, relics and weapons!Promo! everything you collect in ruins can be sold. Once you've reconstructed the relic, save one for the museum (which is unlocked later), one for your farm and the rest to sell. Most relics cost at least 250 gols. You can only get so many bonuses for furniture and eventually you get tired of these pink sofas. Sell them. And you only need the highest weapon in your inventory - to sell spare parts. Fish for money! I personally love fishing, but a lot of people do. King Fish sell for the most gols (5k) and can be caught in various fishing locations. You can also breed an aquarium and breed fish and sell them. You need two fish of the same species to breed them. It really is only worth breeding king fish. Feed them 3 dough dough every day, and in 9 days they will breed another royal fish, which can be sold at a profit. If you can't catch king fish yet, at least try breeding with Emperor Fish.Craft and sell trap devices at the end of the game for money This is my favorite item for craft for money. You unlock the recipe after the Perfect Mission Trap (which comes in the main story after you unlock Starlight Island). You only need 5 steel frames and 4 solid aluminum to make one trap - both of which can be manufactured pretty quickly. 1 trap sells for 944 gols and if you sell on a 136% market, you can sell them for $1,283 gols each. Craft and sell in bulk to Total Tools or AHG as soon as the market gets the highest. I usually sell at least 50 a month, but you can really grind more if you need to. Don't worry with the animals at the beginning of the game, it's not really worth messing with the animals. Just like horses, you have to have a place on the farm (which includes buying land), materials for making the necessary sheds and chicken coops, gols for making storage shelters with, and then food to feed the animals. They also take time as you have to pat them every day and clean their feed. Eggs, milk and fur can get a few other ways in the game without owning animals and don't sell for much anyway. Skip the animals for at least 2 years. Once you unlock Ack, it can make all the trend for you (or your spouse can) and makes the animals much lower maintenance. Then you can lift and sell your animals and their goods. Don't worry with farming!Again, agriculture is not a super profitable skill of making money in this game. While you should certainly have to have some planters and grow things all year round, it's best to use these items for your own crafting and resources. Selling planted goods isn't really profitable until you unlock the South Block Trade Post, which will ask for certain items (such as Rainbow Flowers or Cotton) in bulk, and you can sell them for more Combat is pretty easy, but here are a few tips.Combat!l preface this with a statement: the fight in this game is relatively easy. It's basically a combo hack and slash, just pressing the button over and over again to hit the target. The higher your skills and weapons, the faster/easier you can kill. But in combat it requires not much skills or strategy, which in some sense is pleasant. A few more pointers: Use food for bonuses on combat!Several dishes to give temporary buffs for combat, either add attack, defense or critical chance (critical strikes that give a serious blow to enemies and kill them faster). I personally love critical chance foods like fruit tart (15% critical chance), spicy tea (30%), and Bubblefish Stew (35%). Set.It also good to buy cheap soda from the grocery store (round table) for 10 Attack or Rainbow Lemonade for 10 Defense. Food buffs don't stack each other (eating new food replaces whatever positive effect you currently have), time). They will stack up with any stats you already have. Accessories and hats also add bonuses to keep accessories and hat equipped that can add to your attack, defense, critical chance, or HP. You can also hide hats and accessories because, let's face it: some of them are disgusting and don't go with the rest of your character's clothes. You can hide hats and accessories in your screen settings. Use high attack weapons to fight!Y can look at weapons on the inventory screen to find out their attack stats or critical chance. Early game, you will find the weapon Knuckle, which deals with 90 attack points, and you have to use this for close-range combat. Poisonous Nakes case 120 Attack. Later, you'll unlock some pretty powerful tools from completing the main story, and it will be easy to defeat enemies. Winning the karate breeze contest by year 2.Don't waste HP consumables in dungeons!There several dungeon missions in a game where you go alone or with NPCs defeat enemies (i.e. wow Industries mission that comes within the first year). These special dungeon areas tend to have free places to eat or use medications to restore full HP and endurance. Also, if you die in a dungeon, you'll just come back with 100% HP after regeneration, anyway, so there's really no punishment for death on these missions. Save HP consumables for dangerous Ruins.You can still die and regenerate with full health, but only three times for launch. After that, you have to start all over again and lose 3 or more hours of time. How to defeat the dangerous ruins of boss!The bosses in each ruin is really only tricky if you don't have the right weapons/materials, and really, just chemical dropout in the sewer factory is difficult as it happens quite early in the game before you may have high stats, skills and weapons. To defeat it and King Rat (another tough foe that comes early game), here's what I recommend: Stock up on herbal juice Make sure you have accessories that give you a critical chance equipped (Logic Cube and Sunglasses give you a total of 20% critical chance) Drink cheap soda or spicy tea right. When you enter the boss' room Equip Knuckles to fight with (if you have a higher weapon at the moment) Create a wide width from the chemical dropout (since it shoots poison at you) at the beginning and run to it counterclockwise Get in close and hit them repeatedly with Knuckles until they are defeated If you are close to death, run away from them and use some herbal juice to get more HP Then dive back into karate Contest!l's worth noting that you probably won't win your first year's karate contest, but you can use the tips above to give yourself the best chance. By the time year 2 rolls around, will be a higher level and be stronger than all NPCs and will be able to easily beat anyone- even Arfo. That's All at the moment! That's all the advice I have at the moment! Do you have any tips for my time in Portia? What advice did you find most helpful? Let me tell you. In the comments section below! The questions and answers: Where can I get carbon fiber in my time in Portia? Answer: You can find carbon fiber mostly in ruins; Grim Swamp Abandoned Ruins, Mine Ingalla (Level 4) or Deepest Ruin.The question is: Where can I get blue skin or do it? Answer: Blue leather can't be manufactured, but you can get it from killing Sturpees in the collapsed Wasteland! The question is: How many hours will it take me to finish my time in Portia? Answer: It depends on how focused you are on the main story/quests. I'd say about 80 o'clock. I'm at 70 something myself and still haven't finished the latest storyline, but that's because I tend to spend more time studying/making money than the basic questline.© 2019 Brittany BrownCommentsNicole February 01, 2020: This is the best I've ever read. Don't just stand there taking hits and getting stunned.fo on September 03, 2019: It's pretty easy to win a karate contest. Just dodge their first attack, hit them once and then run away until the timer runs out. Aaron on July 13, 2019: I'll agree, this is a great brief review. I'm having my first winter. I personally recommend going for the experience to get skills first. Also, starting behind your opponent in karate competition is cheap but useful. Amelia on June 07, 2019: Really well done post.
